

FACT FRIDAY

Fact: A strawberry isn't an actual berry but a banana is! Who would have guessed?

The science: Technically a berry is defined as a fleshy fruit produced from a single seed and they have seeds inside them like a banana. But strawberries have dry yellow seeds on the outside instead of inside, each of which are considered a separate fruit. goo.gl/3dFPzA